“On the Edge”

This program provides participants an awareness of speed skating. It's a great way for children to learn skating through fun interactive games that build skating skills at various levels.

Speed Skating Canada has developed a series of sequential skating activities through a 12 lesson approach which creates awareness of the sport of speed skating and assists with the teaching of skating through a speed skating approach. A speed skating program can add a new dimension by injecting new and exciting ideas and activities. The lesson plans incorporate the teaching components, the teaching progression and the exercises and activities which may also be used to accomplish the lesson's objective.

Skating is a life long skill and as such, is an attractive activity to participate in. The elements of fitness: namely balance, coordination, endurance, strength and agility can all be improved upon within a skating program.

Learning to skate well is a prerequisite to successful participation in the organized sport of speed skating, in-line skating, hockey, figure skating and ringette. Speed skating is often used as a cross trainer for other sports such as cycling and cross country skiing.
